

She does not speak
By: Joan Pacinabo

With that look in your eyes,
It seems like you know everything about me.
You knew me more than I do,
Please say no.

I am trying to find the words,
That describes me best.
The main reason whenever my world stop's turning,
And every time I find my heart bleeding.

When I feel sad,
I know you feel the same.
When I am crying,
I see the tears falls in your cheeks.
But mirror, you never speak.

When somebody p*ss*d me off,
And when I passed you by.
I see the changes in your face.
Your eye says the rest.

You follow every action I make,
I see how your mouth closes and open,
But your words are the same as mine,
I never hear your voice even just one time.
You just copying everything I do in front of you.