

When I sit at my desk and I think about life
I can see I'm a worker as well as a wife;
Which is more important - to work really hard?
Or to sit here, look busy but really play cards?
Should I be thinking of work every day?
Or could I sit here and take home my pay?
Looking at working it seems really dull
When I could be living my life to the full.
I wish they'd just pay me to sit here and do
A big load of nothing and do it well, too!
I mean, I'd be busy I've things I could do
It may not be work, but it's important too
Things to arrange, meals to sort out
Think about money - what's that all about?
And what about working I hear you all say
Well work's what you do
When you've got time in the day!
