

When words failed

I think you've doubted about the actions I show
The words I speak, so seriously
Well, it's up to you
But that's really what I wanted to say

I don't completely believed you too
I still think twice about it
I can't stop these things I do
Because that's the way I felt

I just love the moment
Every time the words failed
The simple human contact
It really soothed what I feel in my heart

I don't have a name to call my feelings
Lately, I feel so strange
Why should I feel those things?
Things now aren't easy to change

When words failed between us
I just love to feel your touch
When you brush your body to mine
I keep missing that time.